

RE/MAX Regional Services Selects ForeclosurePoint for Online Foreclosure Property Search

Seattle -

SEATTLE -- ForeclosurePoint, which provides online information and technology services to real estate professionals, today announced that RE/MAX Regional Services will use ForeclosurePoint's BrokerOffice product across multiple regional websites, helping RE/MAX Regional Services turn its websites into foreclosure property destination sites that generate a high rate of buyer leads and sales.

ForeclosurePoint.com features nationwide foreclosure property listings, with property addresses, filing dates, estimated opening bids and satellite images, among other property details.

With BrokerOffice from ForeclosurePoint seamlessly integrated on multiple RE/MAX Regional Services websites, homebuyers and investors visiting those websites will be able to search and research default properties in those markets. Searching will be free to site visitors, with ready access to foreclosure experts from RE/MAX Regional Services.

ForeclosurePoint also will be the exclusive foreclosure property information provider on the RE/MAX Regional Services sites that are part of the agreement announced today:

- <http://www.remax-georgia.com/> (RE/MAX of Georgia)
- <http://www.remax-kentucky.com/> (RE/MAX of Kentucky)
- <http://www.remax-tennessee.com/> (RE/MAX of Tennessee)
- <http://www.remax-ohio.com/> (RE/MAX of Southern Ohio)
- <http://www.remax-detroit.com/> (RE/MAX of Southeastern Michigan)

Resources include information on national and local foreclosure laws, and exclusive feature articles by foreclosure experts.

BrokerOffice is the only product available to real estate brokers and sales associates that displays listings, including property addresses, directly on agency websites, so visitors can research properties without leaving a broker or agency's website. Agency branding is fully maintained with the integration of BrokerOffice.

"To participate effectively in the foreclosure market, RE/MAX Regional Services professionals must position themselves as foreclosure experts who can help homebuyers and investors identify opportunities and close transactions," said Eric Garner, Technology Director at RE/MAX Regional Services. "ForeclosurePoint's BrokerOffice is a superior solution that will attract a larger share of Internet traffic and monetize the foreclosure property market."

"We are excited and proud that RE/MAX Regional Services selected ForeclosurePoint to power the foreclosure property centers on their websites," said Chris Matty, ForeclosurePoint's Chief Marketing Officer. "Our BrokerOffice product turns real estate professionals into foreclosure experts, and allows them to profit from the foreclosure market right from their websites, with detailed foreclosure inventory and a highly effective system that enhances their relationship with their clients."
